MISCELLANEOUS.

THE MUTUAL BENEFIT
Life Insurance Company.
Newark, N. J.

Organized in 1845. Charter Perpetual.

Having paid losses on deceased members amounting to $5,125,425, and declared in Dividends to the living the sum of $6,002,839, with assets well secured amounting to over $12,000,000, has just declared its TWENTIETH annual Dividend, being 50 per cent.

The Annual Income for 1866, was $4,034,855.39.

It continues to issue all classes of Life Policies, at the lowest rates consistent with perfect security to the members. Its distinguishing features are economy in expenditure, and care in its management.

It pays no stockholders for the use of capital, no bonuses or commissions to officers, and no immoderate compensation to agents.

All its Directors attend its meetings, and serve on its committees. Its risks are carefully selected so as to secure sound lives. It is careful in adjusting losses and prompt in payment.

Its funds are invested with regard to security, never hazarding principal for interest; hence it has never lost a dollar on its investments. After paying losses and expenses, and reserving the value of all outstanding policies, it has ALWAYS made an ANNUAL dividend of return premiums to the members, and paid them when due.

It is a "MUTUAL BENEFIT" Company, having but one class of members, all life policies, both new and old, sharing equally in the annual division of surplus, receiving a dividend on every premium paid.

It endeavors, in brief, to act in all respects as a faithful trustee for the members. Having for over twenty years pursued this course, it proposes to continue it in the future, and offers its advantages to all who desire to insure in a Company so conducted.

ELEGANT CARRIAGES
—AT—
C. P. Kimball's,
Preble Street,
Portland, Maine.
I TAKE great pleasure in saying to my friends and customers that I have now on hand, and am constantly making, a large number of the most Elegant Carriages, in Style, Finish and durability ever offered in New England.
Having greatly enlared my factory, I hope hereafter to be able to supply my numerous customers, with all kinds of fine Carriages, including my celebrated "Jump Seat," invented and Patented by me in 1854, in addition to those heretofore built which I have greatly improved. I have just invented an entirely New Style Jump Seat, with Buggy Top to fall back or take off, making six different ways the same carriage can be used, each perfect in itself, and manufactured by no other concern in the United States. These carriages give the most perfect satisfaction, as some hundreds of testimonials I have at my office will prove. Cuts of the Jump Seats, sent by mail to those wishing to purchase.
All persons are hereby cautioned against making or selling the Kimball Patent Jump Seat without the purchasing of me a right to do so, as my inventions and Patents cover every possible movement to both seats.
All carriages sold by me are made in my factory under my own supervision, by the most skillful workmen, nearly all of whom have been constantly in my employ for many years, and their work cannot be excelled. All my carriages are warranted and sold for prices lower than the same quality and finished carriages can be purchased for at an other establishment. Please call and examine before purchasing.

The Prospect.

Now that our late visitors have gone away and are fairly out of hearing, we may properly enough talk over the results of the meeting among ourselves, in a quiet, family way. We are very glad, of course, that they enjoyed themselves, and have taken a sincere pleasure in entertaining them; but we are also anxious to know whether the "era of good feeling" is likely to lead to any important results. Of course, at this stage of the business, there has not been and cannot be any assumption of definite obligations; but on reviewing the whole ground, we find in the expressions of the Vermont delegations evidence of a clear conviction that Vermont may be relied upon to build the road from the junction with the Vermont Central to the western line of New Hampshire—and something more. We know that Maine may be relied upon to build the road from the junction with the Portland and Rochester to the eastern line of New Hampshire—and something more. The New Hampshire delegates were satisfied that the road through northern New Hampshire would be of great advantage in various ways to their State, and equally satisfied that New Hampshire would do its part. Add to these assurances the interest shown by the New York delegations in this new outlet to the seaboard, their evident appreciaton of the increased business which such an outlet would attract to the roads in which they are interested and the Lake ports in which they do business, and it is plain there is to be no lack of means. We may almost consider the road built.

If the New Englanders have suggested a likely "notion" to the New Yorkers, it must be acknowledged that they have paid us in kind. The Niagara ship canal is so remote from the sphere of our daily interests, that but few men in Maine have hitherto given the subject much thought. It was presented to us repeatedly, and in various aspects. After General Stewart's exceedingly clear explanation of the bearing of the scheme upon the grain trade of the country, it was no longer possible to wonder at the growing interest of the Far West and of Northern New York in the subject; and when at the conclusion of General Stewart's remarks, Governor Washburn, first remarking upon the presence of distinguished gentlemen from every part of the State, offered a resolution affirming that in the opinion of the citizens of Maine the Niagara ship canal should and must be built, the resolution was adopted with a hearty unanimity, which showed how perfectly the General's lucid presentation of the case had been appreciated. The ship canal is henceforth accepted as a part of the line of communication which Portland seeks to establish with the Far West, and ultimately with the Eastern Continent.

Death of C. C. Woodman

BY SUICIDE.

The New York papers of Thursday give the particulars of the suicide in that city of Mr. C. C. Woodman,—well known in this city and State,—who shot himself in his room at the Hoffman House, on Tuesday evening. All accounts agree that the deceased was first seen at the hotel at about noon on Tuesday. He appeared somewhat nervous and excited, and anxiously inquired of the clerk whether Mr. Cleveland, the postmaster at Hartford, was in the house, and on being answered in the negative, expressed great disappointment. About an hour after his arrival, Mr. Woodman asked to be shown to his room, saying that he had had no sleep for several nights, and should now have a long rest. At about nine o'clock in the evening the housekeeper heard what she supposed to be the explosion of an India cracker, but after listening a moment and hearing nothing further, paid no more attention to the matter. At about eight o'clock Wednesday morning, Mr. Woodman was found in his room apparently asleep, and as at 3 P. M. he had not stirred, an investigation revealed that he had committed suicide. His breast had been bared, and he had evidently held his revolver close over the heart. Several letters were on the table in his room, among them the following:

Dear Brother,—I only wish to say that I desire you to take such charge of my body as may seem best, and to bear to Hetty and the children, to mother, who has always been so very good, and to my other brothers and sisters, my earnest wishes for their happiness. I am badly made up, and am an entire failure, as you know. My friends can do better without me than with me. I will go, and I sincerely hope you will all profit by my going.—My sentiments towards you all are full of love and gratitude for many favors undeserved. I love you all. I leave you the charge of advising and assisting my children. Tell Hetty that my last letter to Lottie was my farewell. I die loving and respecting her. I know that she is noble, pure and good, and that she made the mistake in joining her life with the life of so poor a wretch as I. From my heart's core I say God bless you all. You have dealt justly with me.

Be friendly to Hetty and the children, and if I see the blessed who have gone before, I will plead with them for you and yours. To each and every one I leave my love—it is all I have excepting pain, physical and mental, which I mean to cure as soon as possible. Good-bye.

C. C. WOODMAN.

The Hetty referred to above is Mr. Woodman's widow, who lives with his mother and his three children in Boston. The brother addressed is a member of the firm of Slote & Woodman of New York, and to him the remains of the deceased were delivered after the inquest. Other letters found in the room treated of family matters, but all of them betrayed a morbid condition of mind bordering on insanity.

Mr. Woodman will be remembered as a man of large stature, with a malformation of the right foot to which he apparently alludes in the letter to his brother. His age was about forty. A man of remarkable ability, he lacked the energy of will to control and direct his faculties. Though a lawyer by profession, he had never applied himself to the practice of the law. He first came to this city six or seven years ago, when he succeeded Mr. Blaine as editor of the Advertiser. He had previously spoken on political subjects in various parts of the State, and was regarded as a man of great promise. His connection with the Advertiser ceased after the paper passed into the hands of Mr. Smith, on account of a difference of political views which could not be reconciled.

Mr. Woodman's history after leaving Portland is a little obscure. He has written some tales of more than ordinary merit, and has contributed articles upon political questions and subjects pertaining to social science to the columns of various newspapers. During the last presidential canvass he spoke in this and other States with his usual force and fervor. It is said that he wrote the remarkable account of the Pennsylvania oil regions which appeared in the Tribune a few years ago. Last year he wrote a series of graphic letters for the Press, from various points at the West, and from Washington, over the signature "C. C." The last of these communications was published on the 21st of June. We heard from Mr. Woodman again in July, but for some months have lost sight of him.

Mr. Woodman's sympathies and impulses have always been good. His affectionate and sensitive nature is sufficiently portrayed in the despairing letter which we print to-day.—Disappointed in life, disappointed in himself, which is harder to bear, he has gone prematurely to render his final account. It is not for us to sit in judgment over his frailties. No mortal can now know through what paths of temptation and suffering his struggling soul was driven to madness. No mortal can presume to say where runs the line which marks the boundary of sane and perfect responsibility.

THE INDIAN BILL as passed by the Senate, at the close of two day's discussion, authorizes the President to appoint three army officers, not below the rank of brigadier-general, who, with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Mr. Henderson of the Senate, Mr. Windom of the House, and John B. Sanborn, shall constitute a commission to call together the chiefs and head men of the hostile Indian tribes, and see if they cannot make peace with them. These commissioners are authorized to select one reservation north of Nebraska, west of the Missouri River, and south of the line of the North Pacific Railway; and another south of Kansas, and west of Arkansas, including portions of the Indian Territory, and if these selections are approved by Congress the reservations shall be a permanent home for the Indians, and the commissioners are empowered to treat for the removal thereto, of all the hostile tribes and the peaceable tribes having no fixed reservations. If the commissioners fail to make peace, then three thousand volunteers are to be enlisted for service against the Indians. The bill appropriates $450,000.

THE NATIONAL ASYLUM FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS.—The first annual report of the Board of Managers was laid before the House Thursday. Only two sites have been selected for asylums; one at Togus Springs, near Agunsta, Me., and one at Milwaukee, Wis. Point Lookout has been rejected as the third on account of its general inaccessibility and the unsavory recollections attending it as a depot for rebel prisoners.

The report says that a system of organization of affairs at the eastern branch has been devised and partly carried out, giving to soldiers who are inclined and able to work a portion of their earnings. This has been found to work admirably, but the small number of those seeking the benefits of the institution has prevented the experiment from being fully tried. A great difficulty has been found to induce disabled soldiers to go to the asylum. Their principal objection is that they will be separated from their families. This objection is so strong as to obtain, where the soldier had become so far reduced as to be relieved as a pauper by the county or town in which he resided.

The board propose under the provision for out door relief, which is provided for to a limited extent by the law, to build detached cottages on the grounds of the asylum (ample lands having been secured with that view, among other purposes,) and allow disabled soldiers to occupy them with their families, to cultivate a garden attached, and thus aid themselves, with the help of the asylum at an expense not exceeding that which a soldier wholly cared for in the asylum buiding would cost.

Active and vigorous measures have been taken to search out and remove to the asylum all disabled soldiers who were in any almshouse, and it is believed that there is no case in that section of country for which the eastern branch has been established, where any disabled soldier is now supported in any almshouse, that has been brought to the knowledge of the board.

The following is a statement of the expenditures thus far:—Total amount received to the credit of the fund, $286,115 55; amount of expenses of the board, salaries, &c., $5217 86; for out-door relief, $500: real estate, construction, furniture, transportation, &c., $79,620 87; clothing, subsistence, &c., for the several branches, $20,000; total expenditure, $105,338.73; balance on hand, $180,776.82.

GEN. GRANT A RADICAL.—A special dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer says Gen. Grant has been before the Judiciary Committee to testify concerning the execution of the reconstruction law and his correspondence and interview with the President. Although he was called at the instance of the Democratic members of the Committee, he gave utterance to such radical sentiments, and expressed himself so clearly and determinedly in favor of carrying out the law in good faith that there has been quite a loud muttering among the Democratic members, some of whom charge him with contriving to secure the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.—We learn from the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser that at a recent meeting of the directors of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, it was suggested that the Canadian government should be urged to "nationalize the railway," and take it entirely out of the hands of the English directors. This step is, we presume, only preliminary to a reorganization of the company—or rather to the extinction of the old company and organization of a new one, to be known, if what we learn is correct, as the "Canadian National Railway." Mr. Bridges, the general manager of the Grand Trunk, is the prime mover in this project.

THE Minerve, a leading Catholic journal in Canada, makes the following extraordinary assertion:

It is with much regret that we have seen some English papers hazard very wicked comments on the conduct of two Canadian priests implicated in the Surratt trial. We should like to have found them practicing as much reticence as we have done toward them. If we had wished, we could have published, long since, the name of a Protestant minister, whose letter is under our eyes and who himself originated the idea of assassinating President Lincoln. The Confederate agents in Canada, whose answer we also hold, declined the proposal, and the minister then resorted to a private attempt. If need be, we could give his name, the place where he is at present residing in one of the northern states, in a well known city, where he occupies an important post and is respected.

Religious Intelligence.

—The last number of the Nation has a sharp article on "The Religious Press," in which it attribute the waning influence of that class of papers to the offensive manner in which they "discharge their dutics as ex-officio defenders of religious truths." The writer says: "Their articles read very much like the Pope's allocutions. The sound and the phraseology are technically unexceptionable. It would take a doctor of divinity to detect a flaw in their doctrine, but the substance, the life, the glow of conviction, are wanting. One feels on running through their homilies as if they were written rather to furnish a certain number of good people in the country districts with proper Sunday reading, than because an earnest and honest man had something to say in them, and could not help saying it, and knew how to say it in simple and manly English." * * * "The slaughtering of infidels and Comtists, whether real or supposed, is not the mission of the religious press of to-day. Whether it be possible to find in any community many men capable of regularly once a week taking, in a newspaper, a strictly religious view of the events of the day, and treating them from this point of view with real fervor and real force, may be doubted. But that the business of the religious press is to do this, and not to bring railing accusations against its neighbors, admits of no doubt. That it is only by doing this with eloquence and earnestness that it will ever justify its existence, admits of just as little. At present the world begins to feel dissatisfied with what its offers as its raison d'etre."

—With the number for this week "The Spiritual Republic" commences its second volume. It is issued by the Central Publishing House, Chicago, is an able and independent jounal, devoted to Radical reform, to the advancement of free thought and equal human rights."

—The Richmond (Methodist) Advocate says: "In our church the ministerial destitution is very great. At the last session of the Virginia Conference, embracing a membership of thirty-five thousand, there were not half-a-dozen applications for admission. From some large districts, with thousands of church-members, there was not a single candidate."

—Rev. Thomas Fielding Scott, Episcopal Bishop of Oregon and Washington, died suddenly at New York, on Sunday morning, of Panama fever, which he had contracted on the voyage from the Pacific coast whence he arrived on Friday.

—The Baptist missions in Sweden enjoy continued prosperity. Mr. Uiberg, the superintendent, writes from Stockholm of almost weekly accessions to the churches. The only hindrance seems to be the attendance of such crowds of people at their meetings that the police threaten to interfere, although there is no appearance of disorder.

—The Earl of Shaftesbury, the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of Durham refused to have anything to do with the ritual commission. Most persons are agreed that the Bishop of Oxford will be the virtual director of the commission.

—The Banner of Light calls for some person to commence the task of collecting and arranging a suitable libtary for the use of the children of Spiritualists in their Progressive Lyceums.

—Mrs. Emma Hardinge's address before the Boston Spiritualists on the 10th, prior to her departure for Europe, is printed in the Banner of Light.

—A new Arabic journal has appeared in the city of Aleppo called Frat or the Euphrates. It is printed in both Turkish and Arabic, and is the Government official organ. Its first number appeared on the first of Maharram, 1284 Hejira, or Sunday, May 5, 1867. Being issued on Sunday is looked upon as a direct insult to the Christian population, who, though having little regard for the Sabbath in the American and evangelical sense of the word, yet regard it as a holy day, and abstain from all ordinary occupations.

—The impression seems to be gaining ground that the events now transpiring in Rome have more significance than a mere ceremonial. It is believed that the Papacy in its despair has resolved to use its last resource, to wield once more the weapon which for three hundred years Popes have dreaded to unsheathe, lest it should be turned against themselves, to summon once more the body which even the Ultramontanes hold to be greater than the Popes, the mystic depositary of inspiration, the Sovereign Parliament of the Church Universal. Should the present gathering of the ecclesiastics be turned into an Ecumenical Council of the Church, with power to depose Popes and modify creeds, to declare new dogmas and establish new formulas of discipline, a true successor to the Council of Trent, surprising events may be looked for. The task it will assume will be no less than that of remodeling the Government of the Roman Catholic Church, by concentrating its supreme control in an individual grasp, and declaring the personal infallibility of its head. This purpose is said to have been entertained, and the plans for its fulfilment carefully prepared through a series of years by the Order of Jesuits, aided by the leading minds among the higher clergy.

Oxygen and Hydrogen—Water.

To the Editor of the Press:

Oxygen is transparent, colorless, tasteless and inodorous, like common air, which it resembles; it is about one tenth heavier than that body. Hydrogen is a transparent, tasteless gas, the lightest of all known substances; having about one fourth the weight of common air. Water is composed of the two gases, oxygen and hydrogen, in the proportion by weight of 8 parts oxygen to one part hydrogen; or by measure 1 part oxygen to 2 of hydrogen. When pure, it is a tasteless, inodorous liquid, colorless in small quantities and becomes sweet, sour, salt, astringent, bitter, nauseous, or poisonous as the substances which it dissolves possess any of these properties.

Water derives its quality of hardness from the presence of various earthy salts; chiefly salts of lime (the carbonate and sulphate).—Hard water is inferior to soft water for all domestic uses, and its effect as a drink is unfavorable in dyspeptic affections; it will also gripe and otherwise injure a horse that is unaccustomed to it.

To all organized beings, water is an agent of the first necessity. It is a well known fact that the well-water of Portland, coming as it does, filtered through sink drains, privies, and numerous other unclean places, contains many injurious and poisonous substances. Knowing this to be the case, it is strange that the intelligent people of Portland should live in the vicinity of a lake of good water, and not have the benefit of it. Is not the health of the people of more consequence than the few thousands of dollars that it would cost to bring this health giving fluid into our city? Sooner or later it will be done, and it might as well be now, as ten years from this time, and I think that the health of the people will more than pay the interest on the money thus expended.

Since the prohibitory law has passed the number of water drinkers has been increased, and it seems cruel and inhuman to force there poor creatures to drink water more poisonous if possible than the foul liquors they have been in the habit of imbibing. Like the horse that is unaccustomed to it they feel the bad effect. Let us have a good supply of water from Lake Sebago, and Portland will be the finest city in New England.

The Cental System.

To the Editor of the Press:

I have penned another "few lines" on the Cental System—for the Press—not because I want to rush into print or achieve a cheap notoriety, but because, having lived for years where the cental system is in use and where bushels, pecks, &c., are not known at all, I no longer live by faith but have actually experienced the "blessedness" of those who buy and sell by weight, and therefore I do know how immensely superior the cental system is to the old fashioned bushel arrangement, and therefore feel called upon in the interest of "suffering humanity" to make a feeble effort in favor of the new system.

A circumstance occurred in your city a few days since which affords a faint illustration of the difference between weight and measure. A dealer sold a sack containing 200 pounds of beans which, had the cental system been in vogue, he would have known were worth $7.74 per hundred and could have seen at a glance that the whole amounted to $15.48. But perhaps he had never heard of so absurd a thing as selling beans by the hundred pounds, certainly he had not bought them so. Consequently he must needs divide 200 by 64 and then multiply the quotient by $5 to ascertain the value of his merchandise!

Could the stupidity of old foggyism devise anything more bungling and inconvenient? more worthy the dark ages, or the times when Mynherr Vanderdundermugger went to mill with his corn in one end of the sack, balanced by a rock in the other?

Who is there that likes the old system? I can only suppose that if there are any who prefer the lumbering old stage coach to the swift moving steam car, or the snail paced post rider to the lightning-winged telegraph—perhaps they may also prefer to still have two pints make one quart, eight quarts one peck, &c., &c.,—but even their case is doubtful.

Now, then, since this hateful old system is a nuisance and ought to be abated, and is something which no business man wishes to see continued, why may we not throw it aside and transact our business as though we had common sense?

Oh that I had the gift of gab like our jolly Premier, for then would I not only blow bushels and pecks out of the arithmetic but

SKI HI!

Yarmouth July 19, 1867.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, for July, is received of the publishers, Ticknor & Fields, Boston. Its contents offer a judicious combination of matters philosophical, literary and popular The opening article is a careful and scholarly essay on "The Origin of the Italian Language.' Another thoughtful paper, on a topic somewhat kindred, is entitled "The Testimony of Language respecting the Unity of the Human Race." Under the head of "Serfdom and the Emancipation Laws in Russia," Mr. W. C. Gannett gives the results of a great deal of historical research and careful study of the progress and methods, as well as the immediate results of that great Old World emancipation which, occurring almost simultaneously with our own in the New, must have for every American student of political events the greatest interest and importance. An examination of the facts presented by Mr. Gannett will not fail to show that the consequences of emancipation in Russia, as in our own Southern States, do not thus far justify the fears of the timid.

Mr. Henry James discusses "Swedenborg's Ontology," in an essay written in his always fascinating style, and marked at once by vigorous analysis and much subtility of insight.—The following brief paragraph from this paper, seems to us a singularly felicitous bit of criticism:

We know of no writer with anything like his (Swedenborg's) intellectual force who is so persistently feeble in point of argumentative or persuasive skill. His books teem with the grandest, the most humane and generous truth; but his reverence for it is so austere and vital, that, like the lover who willingly makes himself of no account beside his mistress, he seems always intent upon effacing himself from sight before its matchless lustre. Certainly the highest truth never encountered a more lowly intellectual homage than it gets in these artless books; never found itself so unostentatiously heralded, so little patronized in a word, or left so completely for its success to its own sheer unadorned majesty.

The paper in this number of the North American which will command the widest attention, is that by an anonymous writer on "The Judiciary of New York City." It is the most scathing exhibit of official corruption which has been laid before the public for a long time; and the worst, of it is that it is unquestionably true. The "judge" whose portrait is here drawn, is unfortunately not the only, nor perhaps the worst instance of this disgraceful degradation of the ermine.

Mr. E. L. Godkin's article on "The Labor Crisis" presents a very careful and thorough review of the existing aspects of this question, exhibits the present state of the controversy between the English trade-unions and the capitalists, and also the tendency of the laws of labor and trade and of public opinion in relation to them. It is a valuable and practical article.

Mr. Charles E. Norton contributes a critical review of Longfellow's translation of the Divine Comedy. It is pleasant to read the hearty and generous praise which a man of thought and culture loves to accord to the genius and culture of his friend; and we think all competent judges will be disposed to agree with him n pronouncing Mr. Longfellow's the most faithful version of Dante ever made, both as to the lette and the spirit, and in ascribing the disappointment which some cursory readers have expressed rather, to their own deficient culture than to the author or translator.

Last and most brilliant of all the papers in this number is that by Professor Lowell upon "Rousseau and the Sentimentalists." We dissent from some of its points: we do not think the writer has made out his case. He talks somewhat as a special pleader, but in a manner so charming that we are much inclined to wish he had talked longer.

The critical notices are sharp and able as usual. The manner in which the case of Mr. Charles Swinburne is disposed of is particularly neat. These are followed by a pungent letter from Professor George Washington Greene in reply to some statements of Mr. Bancroft derogatory to the memory of General Greene, the Professor's father. The letter is dignified, and severe only through the facts it presents, which are of a kind we should think, to unpleasantly affect the sensibilities of the "historian of America."

—In the time of James I., Belfast, Ireland, was an insignificant village, and was presented by him to Sir Arthur Chichester. One of the curses of Ireland rests upon this town; every foot of land on which it is built is owned by one man, the Marquis of Donegal, a descendant of James's grantee. Every citizen has to pay tribute him. His income for ground rent is from one to two millions of dollars per annum.

Municipal Court.

RECORDER KIDDER PRESIDING.

FRIDAY.—A boy named Thomas McCarty was convicted of throwing stones in the streets, and it cost his father $6.25 to keep the lad from going to jail.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.—The Universalist Society, at the lower part of the city, who lost their church by the great fire, have purchased the Methodist Church building, which was on Munjoy, and removed it to the Hay-scale lot, on Congress street, intending to use it till they are enabled to build a suitable church on their fine lot on Congress street. The building has been fitted up in a tasteful manner for church purposes, and will be opened for the first time to-morrow afternoon. The sermon will be by Rev. W. B. French, of Turner. Rev. Mr. Bolles will take part in the services, which are to be of a varied and pleasing character. The public, we are requested to say, are invited to be present. We congratulate the members of that order, who were deprived of their church, on this auspicious foundation of a nucleus about which they can rally until they are enabled to return to a commodious edifice erected on the spot hallowed by the labors of such patriarchs as Streeter, Bisbee, Reese, Saddler, and many others, who were pastors of that church in former days.

SACCARAPPA.—We learn that a very interesting meeting was held in Saccarappa on Thursday evening to consider the question of forming a Christian Association in that village. Mr. Lord, of the Christian Mirror, and Messrs. Curtis and Ricker, representatives of the Young Men's Christain Association of this city, spoke so admirably of the operations of the Association here, and gave such a graphic and lively account of the great convention held in Montreal in June, that it was unanimously voted that the same gentlemen be invited to repeat their visit next Thursday, when it was promised that they would find a crowded house and eager listeners. The pledge will doubtless be amply fulfiled.

ARREST.—Ellen Farrington, a married woman about 29 years of age, had been at work at Mr. Hatch's, on Pine street. While there she stole some forty or fifty dollars worth of articles belonging to a lady, a boarder in the house, and decamped. Deputy Marshal Wentworth tracked the woman to Bath, and from that city to several other towns, and finally arrested her in Waldoboro and brought here to this city on Thursday. Nearly all the stolen articles were recovered.

MINOT'S LEDGE LIGHT HOUSE.—I notice an important omission in an article in this morning's Daily Press relative to a new lantern deck made by Mr. Ira Winn for Minot's Ledge Light House. It should have been stated that the work was done under the immediate supervision of Charles Edwards, Esq., the accomplished engineer attached to the Light House establishment in the 1st Light House District.

HIGH STREET.—We would refer our High street friends to the advertisement of their annual excursion in another column this morning. The grove at Saco river is attracting large numbers this year, and the gathering of the High street Parish and Sabbath School promises to be one of the largest of the season.

Attention is called to the advertisement of H. R. Greene, A. M., Principal of the Oriad Institute, Worcester, Mass. This institution was established about twenty ago, and has been constantly gaining in public favor. No labor will be spared by its present Principal to make it one of the best institutions for young ladies in New England,

GONE TO JAIL.—Frederick H. Reed who was convicted of a single sale of liquor and was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment in the County Jail, in addition to the fine, in the Municipal Court on Thursday, was given until Friday morning to furnish the required bail for appealing his case. Not furnishing the sureties on Friday, he was committed to jail. This is the first case of imprisonment under the amended liquor law, the other persons convicted having carried up their cases to the Supreme Judicial Court.

BUCKLEY'S SERENADERS.—This favorite Troupe will visit our city next week, and give an entertainment on Monday and Tuesday evenings in Deering Hall. The performances of this company are of the most versatile character, as the artists appear in white and black faces. A new and laughable farce is performed in which Mr. S. Buckley plays six different characters. In addition to the singing and playing, there is the usual amount of clog dancing, rendering the whole entertainment a very satisfactory and pleasing one.

—Miss V. H. York of Nobleboro, an employee in one of the Lewiston mills, sustained a severe injury of the right hand, Wednesday afternoon, by being caught in the machinery. The first finger of the right hand was taken off and the hand otherwise badly injured.

—Mr. William Bickford, of Kennebunk, died almost instantly on Tuesday, from the effects of drinking ice water when heated by mowing.

—The Oxford Democrat says; "Crops never looked better than now. Apples will, we should judge, be scarce. The hay crop will be heavy."

—We understand that a man named Clark, in Frankfort, was killed by lightning Wednesday evening. He was standing in his barn doors, with two other men, when he was killed.

—On Wednesday, a countryman stepped into a store in Bangor to inspect one of Starrett's Meat and Vegetable Choppers. Coming to the conclusion that the machine was a humbug and wouldn't cut, he placed his left forefinger under the knife and gently turned a crank to test the "critter," when down came the knife and off came an inch of the finger. He finally acknowledged that the "tarnal thing would cut."

—The Rockland Gazette says George Barlow, while haying in a meadow last Sunday, was thrown against a stone wall by the upsetting of the load of hay, and was seriously, and probably fatally, injured. His skull was badly fractured, his right arm broken and elbow injured. He is in a critical condition.

—The Eastport Sentinel says that the mackerel fishermen have been very successful lately.

—The Oxford Democrat says a son of Samuel B. Fields, of West Sumner, aged nine years, was caught in a belt in a grist mill and carried around a shaft making 300 revolutions per minute. The lad was instantly killed.

—The Aroostook Pioneer gives the particulars of a shooting affair at Mars Hill in that county on the 13th inst. It seems a man named Knapp, who had lived at that place, became jealous of his wife, left her and went to Exeter. On the day in question he returned to his residence where he met his wife, and commenced shooting at her with a revolver. He fired four balls three of which took effect one in her breast, one in her left arm and the third grazing her face. The woman then broke from him and run, while Knapp coolly walked away. He made no attempt to escape and appeared quite unconcerned. He gave himself up to officer Ketchum and was taken to Houlton jail. Hopes are enterained of the womans recovery.

—On Saturday last two little daughters of James Goodwin, of Bridgton, went out to pick berries. Shortly after, a person passing saw a bonnet, and on looking further discovered both little girls in the pond, life being already extinct.

—The Brunswick Telegraph says Parepa will not sing at Commencement. Her physician forbids her singing in the month of August. Tenney says he won't say who is coming lest he makes another blunder.

PANIC STRUCK BEAUTY.—It is a terrible shock to a charming woman—indeed, to any woman—to find that her teeth are "beginning to go." THE MASON AND HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.—The highest musical authorities of the land have pronounced in their favor, as meeting a want which has long been felt, and combining more reliable qualities than any other instrument of the character now before the public. Among other advantages in their favor, they occupy little space, are gotten up in highly ornamental style, are remarkable for their great volume of sound, the ease with which they are played, the simplicity of their construction and their adaptation to all kinds of music.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

HOUSE.

On motion of Mr. Barnes the Secretary of the Treasury was directed to report the amounts received as a tax on distilled spirits in the several collection districts since 1862; also the amount expended by the Government in prosecuting offenders, the quantity of whiskey seized, etc.

Mr. Judd offered a preamble and resolution, reciting that about a year since a stone, commemorating the death of Mr. Lincoln, had been transmitted by the people of Rome to the President of the United States, bearing the following Latin inscription:—"The citizens of Rome dedicate this stone, taken from the tomb of Serrius Tullius, to Abraham Lincoln a President for the second term of the United States of America, by which the memory of either brave defender of liberty may be joined to that of the other;" that this beautiful memorial has been allowed to remain in the cellar of the White House, surrounded by rubbish, and requesting the President to cause the stone to be sent to the House of Representatives, that it may have a conspicuous place in the National Capitol, etc. Adopted.

Mr. Lincoln offered a preamble and resolution, to the effect that it is rumored and believed that fraud and peculation are taking place in the Paymaster General's office, and authorizing the appointment of a select committee to investigate the workings at the office with power to send for persons and papers. Objection was made, and the rules were suspended and the resolution introduced. Mr. Lincoln stated that he and other gentlemen of the House had been looking after these matters for three or four months, and were in possession of facts which convinced them this investigation ought to be made.

Mr. Cobb made a statement in regard to the Paymaster's Department, after which the objection was withdrawn and the resolution and preamble were adopted.

On motion of Mr. Washburne the select committee on soldiers' bounties was authorized to inquire generally into the causes of delay in the payment of bounties, with power to send for persons and papers.

The Speaker then laid before the House the message of the President vetoing the supplementary reconstruction bill, which was thereupon read by the Clerk.

The veto having been received and read, a debate ensued, which was participated in by Messrs. Boutwell, Butler, Randall, Boyer, Stevens and Williams of Pennsylvania, Pruyn and Wilson.

The House then, at 4 o'clock, proceeded to vote on the bill, and it was passed by the Constitutional two-thirds majority.

The Speaker announced as the select committee on the investigation of the Pay Department, Messrs. Lincoln, Garfield, Cobb, Buckland and Halman.

The House concurred in the Senate amendment to the bill for the further security of equal rights in the District of Columbia.

The Senate resolution of sympathy with the people of Crete was agreed to.

Mr. Boutwell, on a suspension of the rules, introduced a joint resolution concerning the government of the army of the United States. It provides that no district or department commander shall be relieved by the President from the command heretofore assigned him, and now exercised by him, without the advice and consent of the Senate, unless the change of commanders be recommended by the General commanding the army. The resolution was read three times and passed.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, July 19.

The Surratt trial was resumed to-day.

Mr. Bradley submitted certified copies of the time tables of the New York Central Railroad in April, 1865, showing that a train left Albany at 7 A. M. and 1.20 P. M.; trains left Syracuse at 1.30 P. M. and arrived at Canandaigua at 4.52.

Mr. Pierrepont agreed that the time tables should be admitted in evidence, but not that the trains actually run.

Mr. Bradley said one of the witnesses waited for yesterday, who had not arrived, was Father Boucher. Since the Court adjourned yesterday the defence had discovered another material witness, a gentleman of respectability and character, who was now in New York, and had been telegraphed for. The defence expected to prove by him that the prisoner was in Elmira, April 14th. When these two witnesses were examined the defence would close. Under the ruling of the Court much of the evidence that the defence proposed to offer was ruled out.

Mr. Merrick moved to strike out that which related to Jacob Thompson, the alleged murderer of Union soldiers, and the Duell letter.

Argument ensued between the counsel on this motion, and also as to what evidence would be admissable on the part of the prosecution in the further conduct of the case.

Mr. Bradley suggested that the prosecution go on, with the understanding that the defence be allowed to put in the evidence of the two witnesses if they shall arrive in time.

The prosecution refused to agree to this.

At 11.40 A. M. the Court took a recess until to-morrow morning.

The Worcester Regatta.

WORCESTER, July 19.

At the regatta this afternoon the rain interfered somewhat, but the races were all rowed. Walter Brown, against time, made three miles in twenty-three minutes. The single scull race was for one hundred dollars and fifty dollar prizes, and the first prize was won by John McKiel in fifteen minutes fifty-four seconds; the second by Gilbert in fifteen minutes fifty-seven seconds; and John Tyler, Jr., won the third in sixteen minutes and two seconds.—Yale won the Freshmen race of three miles in nineteen minutes thirty-eight and one-fourth seconds, Harvard coming in in twenty minutes and six seconds. Harvard won the University race of three miles in eighteen minutes twelve and three-fourths seconds, the best time on record, Yale coming in in nineteen minutes twenty-five and one-half seconds.

The races were witnessed by an immense crowd. Champion flags were presented to the winning crews; also gold medals to each of the winning University crews, and a silver cup to each of the winning Freshmen crews.

MEXICO.

Nicaragua Negotiating a Treaty with the United States.

Enthusiastic Reception of Madame Juarez!

JUAREZ DECLINES A RE-ELECTION!

Probable Execution of Generals Marquez and Santa Anna.

NEW YORK, July 19.

A dispatch from New Orleans says Juarez was expected at the city of Mexico on the 10th inst. Cortinia who had been reported on the Rio Grande with an army of observation, is now said to be watching Logada, the martial commander in Jalisco. Ortega is to be relieved soon and is to be a member of the Congress called by Juarez. It is stated that several more imperial prisoners have been condemned at Queretaro. Two transports have been seen bound for Vera Cruz, with the French flag at their peaks. The death of Santa Anna is said to be confirmed. Several Liberal Generals had resigned on account of the bloody work at Queretaro.

It is said the Government of Nicaragua has taken measures to open negotiations with the United States, having in view a treaty of amity, commerce, etc. Complaints are made of obstructions in the Rio San Juan Nicaragua, placed there by the French and other foreign settlers, rendering traffic on the river dangerous and in some places impossible.

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.

The United States Revenue Cutter Wilderness arrived to-night from Vera Cruz where she arrived on the 14th inst with Madame Juarez. A deputation of Mexican Officials boarded the vessel and warmly welcomed Madame Juarez back to Mexico. On the 15th she disembarked from the Wilderness and met with an enthusiastic public reception civil and military. The display during the day was a gala one and at night the city was brilliantly illuminated and there was a magnificient display of fireworks in her honor. She would be accompanied by a large party of Mexican notables and would leave for the city of Mexico on the 16th inst. President Juarez arrived at the Capitol on the 14th inst, and was cordially received. He emphatically declines a re-election to the Presidency, and has ordered a new election to be held. He will retire to his hacienda in the mountains as soon as his successor is chosen.

It is officially reported that Gen Vidaurri had been shot, thus meeting the fate of Maximilian, Miramon and Mejia.

General Marquez is believed to be hiding in the city of Mexico; he will be shot as soon as captured. It was reported in Vera Cruz on the 14th inst, that Santa Anna was still alive, but later dates received in this city from Tampico, state that he has been shot. Everything is quiet in Vera Cruz.

The Austrian sloop-of-war Elizabeth was receiving Refugees on board. She had no communication with the Mexican officials except through the United States Gunboat Tacony, and Consul Souliver.

The Wilderness brings dispatches to the British, French and Austrian Governments.—The Mexican Government is about to publish an address to the world in which they expect to justify themselves for the execution of Maximilian. It will treat of the killing of six thousand three hundred Mexicans for defending their native soil and cities; precedents which they think will clearly prove their acts within the bounds of propriety. They will produce documents which will throw light upon what they have done. Some of the noblest men in the Republic are engaged in the work.

The President's Veto Message.

WASHINGTON, July 19.

The President to-day sent his message to the House of Representatives vetoing the supplementaf reconstruction bill. Towards the conclusion of the message he says:—"This interference with the constitutional authority of the Executive Department is an evil that will inevitably sap the foundation of our federal system, but it is not the worst evil of this legislation. It is a great wrong to take from the President powers conferred on him alone by the Constitution, but the wrong is more flagrant and more dangerous when the powers so taken from the President are conferred upon subordinate executive officers, and especially upon military officers. Each of the five district commanders, though not chosen by the people, or responsible to them, exercises at this hour more executive power, civil and military, than the people have ever been willing to confer upon the head of the Executive Department, though chosen by and responsible to themselves. The remedy is in the hands of the people and is to be found in the ballot, and it is a sure one if not controlled by fraud, overawed by military power, or from apathy on their part. With an abiding confidence in their patriotism, wisdom and integrity, I am still hopeful of the future, and that in the end the rod of despotism will be broken, the armed heel of power lifted from the necks of the people and the principles of a violated Constitution preserved.

The President contends that the government has not acquired by conquest any title to the land of the South or any right other than those which it has over them in common with the other States under the Constitution. He further objects that it confers upon military commanders power to appoint civil officers, and that in the performance of certain duties he becomes a civil officer? What is his character? Is he a civil officer of the State or a civil officer of the United States. If of the State where is authority under the Constitution which authorizes his appointment by any federal officer? If, however, he is to be considered a civil officer of the United States, as his appointment and oath would seem to indicate, where is the authority vested by the Constitution?

DUBLIN, July 18.

Six persons, who took an active part in the Waterford riots and were arrested by the police, have been tried, convicted and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

LONDON, July 18.

Efforts are being made to obtain the release of Gen. Nagle, one of the party of Fenians who landed at Dungarven and were subsequently captured by the Irish guards. COPENHAGEN, July 18.

The Danish Parliament has adjourned.

LONDON, July 18—Evening.

A grand banquet was given at Guild Hall this evening in honor of the Sultan of Turkey. For this entertainment great preparations had been made, and it was in every way a success. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, His Higness Ismail Pacha, Viceroy of Egypt, and all the principal members of the Government were present. Nearly 3,000 guests sat down at the tables, which were stretched in parallel lines nearly the whole length of this magnificent hall. The greatest number of those present were men most eminent in the nation for rank and reputation. The hall and tables were gorgeously decorated, and the display of gold and silver plate was excessively rich and dazzling.

To-night the grand ball given to the Belgian volunteers, who are on a visit to this country, is in progress at Agricultural Hall. Over 15,000 people are there, and it is expected that the Sultan, Prince of Wales, and others of the royal and distinguished party at Guild Hall will visit Agricultural Hall before the close of the festivity.

ANNEXATION OF MEXICO.

Professed Overtures from the Liberal Party.

NEW YORK, July 19.

A special Washington dispatch says Mr. Abbott brother of the historian, has broached the proposition to leading members of Congress for the annexation of Mexico, which he intimates meets the approbation of Juarez and the chiefs of the Mexican Republican party. The latter fear, it is said, another foreign intervention on account of the execution of Maximilian or the continuation of intestine strife engendered by bad blood, between the leading military chieftans, and will be satisfied with annexation provided that they themselves can be secured in some good government berth and peace can be secured to the country. Mr. Abbott's propositions were received with hesitation by Mr. Sumner and General Banks, but other members, among whom were Messrs. Howard, Chandler, Cole and others, received the propositions with much favor.

California Republican State Convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.

The Republican State Convention met at Sacramento to-day and nominated the following State ticket; For Governor, John Bidwell; for Secretary of State, D. G. McCullom; for Comptroller, William Jones; for State Printer, William Jeffries: The remainder of the ticket was composed of the nominees of the Union State Convention, who have endorsed the Reconstruction policy of Congress and favor impartial suffrage without distinction of color. J. O. Goodwin has withdrawn as an independent candidate for Congress in the Northern district, leaving the field clear throughout the State to the Congressional nominees of the Union party.

From San Francisco.

NEW YORK, July 19.

Great Conflagration at Concord, N. H.

Destruction of Shops, Locomotives &c.

Loss about $250,000.

CONCORD, N. H., July 19.

A most disastrous fire occurred here this evening, which destroyed property belonging to the Northern Railroad to the amount of $250,000. The fire was first discovered in a wood shed near the round house, which contained eight or ten engines, none of which were removed, the flames spreading with such rapidity that it was impossible to move them. The flames communicated to the adjoining machine shop, about two-fifths of which were consumed. At this point it was checked by a brick and iron wall. On the other side it swept through the long wood sheds and communicated to the new bridge across the railroad track and to another wood shed filled with wood, all of which were totally consumed The flames communicated to other buildings but was kept from spreading by the exertions of the fire department. The insurance on the property was about $125,000, taken by C. L. Putnam of Worcester, in ten companies. Telegraphic communication to the North of here was interrupted by the destruction of wires on four lines.

Boston Boot and Shoe Market.

BOSTON, July 18.

Some considerable improvement is observable this this week in the demand and shipment of Boots and Shoes from this market. There are quite a number of buyers now present from the principal markets South and Southwest. Prices with the increase of demand are advanced from 3 to 5 per cent. on seasonable goods, which is no more than sufficient to cover the increased cost of materials for manufacturing, and were it not there is a full supply of workmen available, assisted by the labor and time saving machinery of the present day, we should still expect further advances in the prices of Boots and Shoes.—At present there are some who doubt that the advanced prices will be sustained through the season, but the indications now are that present rates will continue, if there is not a still further advance before the middle of August.—[Shoe & Leather Reporter.

LADIES' CL

Poetry.

[From the New York Evening Gazette.]

July.

Now sweet and sunny June is past,
Its many-tinted roses fade,
The wheat fields, waving ripe at Last,
Stand ready for the reaper's blade.

July comes bounding o'er the plain,
With fiery robe and blazing crown;
Flowers, richer-hued, adorn his train
Than with his sister June have flown.

The harvest apple with a blush
Turns ripe; the golden nectarine,
Tinged with faint crimson streaks, and lush,
Amid its emerald leaves is seen.

The birds watch o'er their callow young,
And fond, supply the needed food;
And when their vesper song is sung,
With hovering wings protect their brood.

The hot day warms the mellow earth,
The night sends down refreshing dews;
And thus, with every day's new birth,
A fresher life and brighter hues.

Clothe plants and flowers, and more and more
Advance they towards their destined goal,
Fostered by winds, and sun, and shower,
Where harvest waits to crown the whole.

Miscellany.

THE OLD MILL.

A VILLAGE ROMANCE OF THE OLDEN TIME.

There never were such cosy nooks for the wild flowers, such silvery streams for the sporting trout, such pretty children, and such nice old ladies with white caps and silver spectacles, as in the charming village of Elfsdale. One of the most romantic things in the place is an old mill. Its ponderous wheel, over which the sparkling water used to play so prettily, is silent now, and the bright stream that once sang so merrily as it whirled along, flows placidly onward. The old mill itself has long been deserted, and its stone steps covered with moss, but there is a story attached to the old building which lends it an additional interest in the eyes of all story-loving people.

Many years ago an old miller lived at the mill. He was a silent man, and as he seldom had a pleasant word for any one, and was besides bent and wrinkled, he was not generally sought after by old or young. But the old miller possessed one thing which found him favor in the eyes of many of the youth of the village, and that was a beautiful daughter. Surely a most beautiful daughter, as all the young men knew very well. She had eyes as black as sloes, and such fair, white arms that half a score of idle fellows used to hang about the mill on washing day, to catch but one glimpse of their polished whiteness.

There could scarcely have been two beings more unlike than this father and daughter. If the old man was silent, the young girl sang blithely to the hum of her spinning wheel. If the father spoke to no one, the daughter chattered gaily with the bluff farmers that came to get their corn ground, or smiled encouragingly on some amorous swain that dallied by the kitchen door, bashfully chewing a bit of wild grapevine. It was no wonder then that all the young men in the village were in love with the maid of the mill.

But no one in this world can please everybody. If the young men followed the form of the fair maiden with loving eyes as she tripped through the village, the old women peered malciously at her through their half-closed shutters, and called her a forward wench and an ill-natured rattle-box. If the young fellows praised her dark eyes the old women talked of her "ugly nose," or ridiculed her "boisterous mirth."

So many months passed by, and strange reports began to be afloat concerning the maid of the mill. It was declared by some of the village gossips, that when passing the mill on dark evenings, they had heard the miller's daughter singing weird and fearful ditties to herself in the darkness and that sparks were seen to fly from her fingers as she sat on the old stone steps. It is true that one old dame, who was more adventurous than the rest, and had approached the maiden more closely, affirmed that she was only humming "Giles Scroggins," and stroking her black cat's soft fur the wrong way, but no one believed her of course.

About this time a young stranger came into the village. He was a school teacher, he said, and soon the little red school-house, beneath four tall maple trees, which had been so long closed, was swarming with laughing children, for every one was pleased with the stranger's appearance. He was tall and handsome, with dark blue eyes and light curling hair, and had a smile and merry word ready for every one. It is true he paid but little attention to the children in the school house, and very often left them to cut and carve the old desks and benches, while he picked flowers to pieces, as the boy said, or pored over heavily bound books. At recess, too, while the boys were robbing some farmer's orchard, their teacher would be gathering flowers and mosses near the old mill and talking to the miller's daughter, as she sat sewing on the steps, with her favorite cat, black as her own raven hair, purring by her side. It was soon remarked by all that the miller's daughter was not so much alone as formerly, and that wherever she went the handsome stranger accompanied her. But this seemed to increase the jealously, not only of the young men, but also that of the old women, and many and strange reports went forth concerning the young maid. Some said she might be seen dancing alone in the moonlight, with her black cat, his eyes flasing fire, sitting on her shoulder, and that horrible shrieks and moans might be heard in the old mill every night as the clock struck twelve.

These reports gaining ground, the old woman who seemed to have first instigated them held a meeting in great horror and indignation, and declared, after talking everything over, that the maid of the Mill must be a witch, and immediately began their preparations to have her seized and tried as such. The village was in suppressed excitement, and a certain evening was secretly appointed on which to bring the supposed witch to trial.—In the meantime, no one was more zealous in his efforts to bring the witch to punishment than the fair-haired stranger, who seemed to have lost all affection for his former sweetheart.

At sunset of the appointed day the maiden was seen walking calmly in her garden, the cat at her side, and evidently ignorant of the fate in store. A few hours later a crowd had assembled at the old mill, and no one appeared more desirous of making himself useful than the young stranger. As the crowd pressed silently around the door, the schoolmaster seized a ladder, and telling the others to try the door, declared he would mount to the upper windows himself, if they could not effect an entrance in the usual way, and hurried to the other side of the house.

The frantic crowd assaulted the door, but there was no resistance from within. The shattered frame soon fell backwards, and the mob rushed in. In vain they searched room after room. The bird had flown, no maiden was to been, only the miller inquired gruffly what they wanted. When asked where his daughter was, he refused to speak, but when told that she could nowhere be found, though he was still silent, it was noticed that he trembled from head to foot. It was a singular circumstance of the affair, that no more was seen from that time forth of the young schoolmaster, and it was therefore inferred that he had been spirited away by the bewitching witch of the mill, when in the act of climbing to her window with which he was last seen. Indeed, it was reported by an old peddler, who was walking in the village on the eventful night, that two figures robed in white, and riding on broomsticks, flew slightly past him near the entrance of the village, and it was supposed by most of the villagers that in this way the miller's daughter escaped from the punishment she deserved.

It has been asserted by some of the incredulous, that the fair-haired stranger was in love with the maid of the mill, and falling to gain the consent of her parent to their union, had gladly taken this opportunity of eloping with the black-eyed maiden; and it has moreover been said by an old man of Elfsdale, who generally spent his time in wandering from one place to another in search of adventure, that he had stopped in the course of his travels at a comfortable house, where he had discovered the maid of the mill herself, surrounded by four or five tow-headed little ones, who were the images of the fair-haired schoolmaster. But no one paid much attention to the stories of wandering Dick, and every one seemed inclined to believe the old peddler.

Soon after his daughter's disappearance the old miller died, and as his child was still supposed to hold revels in the deserted rooms, with all the witches of her acquaintance, and to dance down the rickety stairs on a broomstick, through the long dark nights, no one cared to purchase the old place, and it soon came to be shunned and neglected by every one.

The old mill stands, and only the tall grass peers through the broad cracks in the floor, and the mice and spiders rear their young undisturbed by mortal man.

Daniel Webster's Memory.

We see sundry articles going the rounds relating to the extr ordinary power of memory possessed by Daniel Webster, and we add another to the list. Nearly twenty years ago, a person, an utter stranger to the Great Expounder, had occasion to see Mr. Webster at his hotel in this city for a very few moments only after midnight. Nothing took place at the interview which could reasonably be expected to fasten the stranger's name or memory on the mind of Mr. Webster; but nevertheless, nine years afterward, (the two never having come into personal contact intermediately,) Mr. Webster met the individual in question one morning between five and six o'clock, in Federal street, named him, saluting him with "Good morning," and inquired as to the residence of a friend in the neighborhood.—[Boston Journal.

AT one of Mr. Beecher's recent Friday evening meetings, he drew most eloquent illustrations from the performances of the Japs.—Afterward a woman arose and made some ridiculous remarks. When she had finished Mr. Beecher quietly exclaimed; "Notwithstanding this, I still am in favor of women speaking in meeting."

RAILROAD CO.
Are now constructing a Railroad from OMAHA, NEBRASKA,
westward towards the Pacific Ocean, making wit its connections an unbroken line
ACROSS THE CONTINENT.
The Company now offer a limited amount of their FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
having thirty years to run, and bearing annual interest, payable on the first day of January and July, in the City of New York, at the rate of Six Per Cent. in Gold,
AT
Ninety Cents on the Dollar.
This road is already completed to Julesburg, three hundred seventy-six miles west of Omaha, and is fully equipped, and trains are regularly running over it.—The company has now on hand sufficient iron, ties, etc., to finish the remaining portion to the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains, 212 miles, which is under contract to be done September 1st of this year, and it is expected that the entire road will be in running order from Omaha to its western connection with the Central Pacific, now being rapidly built eastward from Sacramento, Cal., during 1870.

Means of the Company.

Estimating the distance to be built by the Union Pacific to be 1,565 miles, the United States Government issues its Six per cent. Thirty-year bonds to the Company as the road is finished at the average rate of about $28,250 per mile, amounting to $44,208,000.

The Company is also permitted to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an equal amount, and at the same time, which by special Act of Congress are made a First Mortgage on the entire line, the bonds of the United States being subordinate to them.

The Government makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, amounting to 20,032,000 acres, estimated to be worth $30,000,000, making the total resources, exclusive of the capital, $418,416,000; but the full value of the lands cannot now be realized.

The authorized Capital Stock of the Company is one hundred million dollars, of which five millions have already been paid in, and of which it is not supposed that more than twenty-five millions at most will be required.

The cost of the road is estimated by competent engineers to be about one hundred million dollars exclusive of equipment.

Prospects for Business.

The railroad connection between Omaha and the East is now complete, and the earnings of the Union Pacific on the sections already finished for the first two weeks in May were $113,000. These sectional earnings, as the road progresses, will much more than pay the interest on the Company's bonds, and the through business over the only line of railroad between the Atlantic and Pacific must be immense.

Value and Security of the Bonds.

The Company respectfully submit that the above statement of facts fully demonstrates the security of their Bonds, and as additional proof they would suggest that the Bonds now offered are less than ten million dollars on 517 miles of road, on which over twenty million dollars have already been expended; on 330 miles of this road the cars are now running, and the remaining 187 miles are nearly completed.

At the present rate of premium on gold these bonds pay an annual interest on the present cost o and it is believed that on the completion of the road, like the Government bonds, they will go above par. The Company intend to sell but a limited amount at the present low rate, and retain the right to advance the price at their option.

An Ordinance additional to the Ordinance relating to Evergreen Cemetery.
Be it ordained by the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, in City Council assembled, as follows, viz:
SECTION 1. One-fourth part of the amount received from the sale of lots in Evergreen Cemetery, and all sums received from transfer of lots, together with all donations made by the holders of lots, or other persons, shall constitute a fund to be called "Evergreen Fund," the interest of which shall be appropriated to improving and ornamenting the grounds and lots in said cemetery and keeping the same in good order under the direction of the committee on cemeteries and public grounds. Season of 1867.
HAMBLETONIAN STALLION
GIDEON,
Will make the present season at the stables connected with the Forest City Trotting Park!
Commencing May 1st and ending September 1st.
Terms, Fifty Dollars for the Season.
Gideon is seven years this spring, stands 15 hands 2½ inches and weighs 1080 lbs.; was bought in Orange County, New York, three years since by T. S. Lang, Esq., of North Vassalboro, and is direct by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, he by A Mambrino by Mambrino by imported Messenger. The dam of Gideon was got by imp. thoroughbred Engineer, he by imp. Messenger, thus being very closely inbred to Messenger, one of the best progenitors of trotters ever foaled. Gideon is the only son of old Hambletonian in this State for stock purposes, is half brother to Dexter, George Wilkes, Volunteer, Shark, Bruno, and many other of the fastest trotters in the country, and although never having been used for track purposes, has exhibited promise of that speed and endurance which is made his relations so justly famous.
Satisfactory vouchers of his pedigree can be produced to those who desire his services or any parties who may dispute it.
Care will be taken to prevent accident or escapes, but should they occur they will be at the owner's risk.
E. S. PALMER.
